City School Board

Buys Property

The City School Board bought the M. Jenkins property on West Walnut Street Tuesday and will convert the residence into a new high school building. The consideration was $15,000 and possession to be given in thirty days.

The location is an ideal one for a school as there is land for a large building and well drained. There is an ample supply of the very best water sufficient to supply both schools. The building is a three story brick with a large concrete basement. With some of the partitions taken out, it will make an ideal building with sufficient room for many years.

The building is in splendid repair and the location is within a few blocks of the graded school.

It is the plan of the Board to have the building ready for the high school to move into by the first of the year.

The Press votes thanks to the Board with both hands. The position of the school will certainly be pleased with the deal.

ELISHA M. DUVALL.

Mr. E. M. Duvall died at his home on Clark Street, this city, Saturday October 15. He was 60 years old and had lived in this county about thirty years.

His remains were buried in the old family cemetery near Repton on Sunday. Rev. W. P. McCreary conducted the funeral.

He lived on his farm until a few years ago he moved to Marion. He was married twice. The first time was to Miss Sarah Lowery, to this union three children were born, J. W. Mary E. and Hattie. His second marriage was to Mrs. Johnnie Haynes, who survives him. His two brothers, U. G. and W. B. were at the funeral.

Mr. Duvall was a good citizen and had many friends. He professed religion early in life and united with the Baptist church and lived an acceptable member.

The Press extends condolence to the bereaved ones.

Basket-Ball

Marion High School lost to Grove Center at basketball last Saturday by the score of 28 to 26. As the score indicates the game was fought on almost even terms. The local girls probably faced the strongest team they will play this year, Grove Center having already defeated Morgantown. The line-up for Marion was: Moore and Hoss, forwards; Lowry, center; Hughes and Birchfield, guards.

Few Marionites know the real worth of our girls basketball team. The members of the team have played together long enough to have developed teamwork to its highest point and they play hardest when the odds against them are greatest. They fight every minute of the game and play one hundred percent clean basketball which is as much as could be required of any team of athletes. The home folks go out to look at Park believing that the main event will be the football game that follows the basketball game but they decide unanimously at the end of the basketball game that the have already received their money's worth. In the four games of this season the Blue and White have scored 198 points to their opponents 41.

CONFERENCE MEETS HERE

The Henderson District Conference of Epworth League will be held at Marion Friday and Saturday, October 21 and 22. A number of leaguers from the different leagues of the district will be present and a very profitable meeting is expected. The meeting will be presided over by Miss Frances Cooper of Smith Mills, Secretary of the Henderson District.

The Rev. W. L. Manday of Louisville, President of the Louisville Conference of Leagues will be present during the entire session and will deliver an address Friday evening at seven o'clock on the subject, "Know Christ." The public is cordially invited to attend all these meetings and a very special invitation has been issued to all the young people of the town and county.

RAIL STRIKE CALLED

A nation wide rail strike that threatens to tie up rail transportation completely in forty-two states has been called by the five big Brotherhoods, numbering 900,000 employees. The strike is in protest against the 12 percent reduction in wages ordered by the Railway Labor Board and effective July 1, 1921. The date set for the strike on the different roads are from October 30 to November 5.

President Harding has the situation under consideration and Washington dispatches declare that only executive interference can avert the strike. Postmaster General Hays states that, notwithstanding the strike the mails will be moved.

A huge army of motor trucks being assembled to move necessary freight in the event that the strike materializes.

FACULTY PLAY

The three act play "All on Account of Polly" given by the faculty of Marion City Schools was an entire success from both financial and entertainment standpoints. The ticket office was rushed even an hour before the doors were opened and a traffic cop was needed in the corridor leading to the auditorium. Every seat in the house was filled and many were standing.

From the time the curtain rose on the first act until it fell on the last scene the audience was swayed by the dramatic ability of the players. The heroine, Polly, was ably played by Miss Lena Holliman, who also directed the production. John Y. Brown took the part of the leading man and made a favorable impression on the audience. Miss Ethel Hard played the role of Mrs. Beverley and her interpretation of this role was a great delight to the audience.

However the star characters of the production were "Pollyann" Travis and "Friday" Belt who pulled curtains. The audience went away after the play was over well satisfied with the feeling of an evening well spent.

Mrs. T. A. Fnoch, of the Hebron section, sold over $100 worth of tomatoes from a crop she grew in her garden. She also has a cannery and cans quite a lot of vegetables for home use as well as for the market.

Tolu Junior Pig Club Show

Last Saturday the Junior Agricultural Club members of the Farmers and Merchants Bank brought in their pigs to Tolu and held an exhibition. These were the pigs that were put out last May to boys interested in learning better methods in swine growing. Many were the exclamations of surprise from those who saw the pigs last spring and those who saw them Saturday. The boys have grown some excellent sows.

A poultry culling demonstration was held in the morning by the County Agent at the show lot. Immediately after dinner the pigs were judged by E. J. Kilpatrick, District Agent, and the prizes awarded. First place went to C. Hardisty, 2nd to Garland Griffin, third to Denzil Boyd and fourth to Raymond Williams. The judge took considerable time in making his decisions due to it being based on three points, best pig exhibit, 60; best record book, 20; cheapest gains 20. The record books showed the cost of feed to range from $8.19 to $14.29 on the various sow pigs. Record keeping and cost accounts are kept in all junior club work as that is important.

Mr. E. J. Kilpatrick delivered a very interesting address on "The value of Live Stock Farming" to the crowd on the show lot.

The Tolu Bank plans on enlarging the Junior Club work next year to include five lines for the Junior Farmers to take in; Baby Beef, Corn, Poultry, Sheep and Swine growing. All farm children between 10 and 18 years of age living near Tolu and interested in any of the above are urged to see either Mr. Grimes or Mr. Spencer about next years project work.

Thursday afternoon a number of interested Crittenden county citizens assembled at the Court House to discuss the organization of a Fair Association for 1922. Everyone present seemed greatly in favor of holding a Fair next year and after some discussion a board of three men were selected and empowered to hold a Crittenden County Fair in 1922. The three men selected are Mr. Cort Pierce, Mr. James Alex Hill and Mr. Hollis Franklin. Everyone get ready for a big County Fair in September 1922.

At the meeting of the Forest Grove Community Club October 13, the members present built a program of work for the ensuing year. Following is a part of the program with the demonstrator who will seek the remedy.

Source of income, Cream dairying, limit of profit, improper feed, poor stock, poor producers, remedy, proper feeding, cost accounts, better stock—Callie Strong.

Source of income Hogs limit of profit, scrub sire, improper feeding, lack of records, lack of market information. Remedy: Pure bred sires, balanced rations, cost accounts, close touch with markets—Alvin, Robinson, Geo. Heinen.

A similar method was made for corn, orcharding and poultry. They will follow out by the methods in these various lines and attempt to increase their profits therefrom.

A large crowd attended the meeting at Hells Mines School Tuesday evening. It was a combination meeting of the farmers club and a pie social where fancy pies were auctioned to the highest bidder to raise money to purchase more ground for the school site. Mr. E. Jeffrey Travis the teacher reported that $28.00 was realized from the sale of the pies and candy.

The meeting at Boat school will be on the fourth Wednesday with the following program:

How I raise corn—L. E. Travis, J. Campbell.

Soil Building—Hazel Campbell, Uncle Tom McKinney.

Talk—Dave Postlethweight.

Talk—County Agent.

Dr. F. O. Schneider, Deputy State Veterinarian is testing cattle for tuberculosis this week in co-operation with County Agent Spencer. have at this time 315 animals tested. Complete report on 1 week as it is only partially at present.

Vote For The People's Judge Hon. Carl Henderson

He has dispatched the business of the Court in Crittenden County in a third of the term, thus reducing it from three weeks to four days or less.

He has saved tens of thousands of dollars of the people's money in jury and witness fees.

He has saved an untold amount of the people's time in getting cases tried promptly; witnesses stay one day instead of four or five; jurors stay 2 or 3 days instead of 12 or 18; and all because Judge Henderson thinks more of the rights of the people than he does of the delays of the lawyers.

He is fair, impartial, upright, able and fearless.

He enforces all the laws all the time. His record for affirmances by the Court of Appeals is above the average of Circuit Judges of the state.

Regardless of politics, the sensible thing for you to do is—

Your Home Town Paper What It Can Do for You

First of all, it can bring to you the NEWS of your own home town. Week after week, it prints in detail the happenings of the community. Faithfully it sets forth the goings and comings of its people, giving careful attention to the homely little items that are ignored in the overcrowded dailies of the big cities.

It can furnish you with more interesting information about people you know, or used to know, than could a dozen private correspondents. The one who writes to you may know only a few of your friends at home—but your Home Town Paper knows them all. It tells you about people you are interested in.

Finally, in a good, hard business sense, your Home Town Paper is of value to you. It keeps you posted as to the industrial and commercial growth of a community which familiarity may have caused you to neglect. It often reveals that keen people see, right in your home town, a mine of golden opportunity. The moral is obvious.

RED CROSS WORKING FOR HEALTHIER U. S.

Thousands Aided by Instruction in Care of the Sick, Food Selection and First Aid.

How the American Red Cross guides thousands of persons to health is shown in a summary of the society's activities in the health field based upon the annual report for the last fiscal year. Through its Nursing Service, its Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick courses, nutrition classes, first aid classes, life-saving classes and health centers and in numerous other ways designed to acquaint masses of citizens with proper methods of living, the Red Cross carried its message of health into all parts of the country.

The work of the Red Cross during the war in its traditional field of nursing, furnishing the military and naval establishments of the nation with 19,877 nurses is well known. And there are today 37,797 nurses registered with the American Red Cross and subject to call in emergency. During the fiscal year, 1,521 Red Cross nurses were accepted for assignment to government service, 385 to the Army and Navy and 1,136 to the United States Public Health Service.

In addition to the nurses enrolled by the Red Cross for government service, the Red Cross itself employed a total of 1,348 public health nurses in the United States and Europe. By far the greatest number was employed in the United States, 1,257 while 91 were in foreign service.

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick classes giving thorough instruction in the proper care of the sick in instances where the illness is not so serious as to require professional nursing care during the fiscal year numbered 3,179. A statistical picture of the Red Cross operations in this field follows:

New classes formed during year 3,179
Classes completed during year 6,250
New students enrolled 101,000
Students completing course 73,482

What the Red Cross accomplished in giving proper instruction through its Nutrition Service is indicated by the following table:

New classes formed during year 142
Classes completed during year 186
New students enrolled 2,341
Students completing course 2,013

In addition to the above a total of 22,600 children were given instruction in the proper selection and preparation of foods.

Through its 390 Health Centers, the Red Cross reached 60,232 persons. In these Health Centers, 4,013 health lectures were given and 791 health exhibits held.

In the United States last year 75,482 persons were killed and 3,500,000 injured in industrial accidents. To prevent this enormous waste the Red Cross held 5,100 first aid classes with a total of 101,000 students enrolled.

RED CROSS RESCUED 600,000 FROM DEATH

Spent $1,200,000 for Relief of Famine Sufferers in China Last Year.

To help overcome conditions of acute distress in five famine-stricken provinces of Northern China where millions of persons were affected by an unprecedented shortage of food, the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year spent more than $1,200,000, $1,000,000 of which was contributed directly by National Headquarters and the remainder by various groups interested in the welfare of China.

Through the wide relief operations thus made possible it is estimated that more than 600,000 famine sufferers were saved from starvation.

To the end that similar prompt relief measures by the organization may always be possible the Red Cross is seeking continued support by the American people by universal renewal of membership at the Annual Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

The method of relief employed by the American Red Cross in its operations in China was particularly effective for in addition to saving hundreds of thousands of lives it provided China with more than $80 million of permanent roads that are sorely needed to prevent a recurrence of famine. At one time the Red Cross employed 74,000 Chinese workmen paying them in food for themselves and dependents. This food being brought in from Manchuria and elsewhere.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

GEE AND HAW.

A FEELAH had a pair of mules That knew no laws and knew no rules. Not good for law and hawed for gee. And went contrary generally. The darnedest mules you ever see.

If both had geed when it was haw, While that ain't just exactly law, It would of worked out party good, If once the thing was understood And they done what you thought they would.

But not these two. If old July, When you yelled "gee," to gee would try, (Old January, 'tother one, Observin' what July had done, Would start to haw'n' on the run.

So gee and haw and haw and gee, But never simultane'ously, They went through life, and kicked more dirt And done less work and done more hurt.

Than two hyenas, I assert.

And I've seen folks just like them mules, Who wed, but never read the rules. Who didn't know you had to wear The marriage collar fair and square And pull together everywhere.

One can't have haw and one have gee. To gee or haw you must agree. And then go forward, gee or haw, Accordingly, without no jaw— And that's good sense, and that's good law.

AN AVERAGE JOB.

ARE you going to be content with an average job, which can be filled by any girl, or do you want a career? If the latter, you must recognize the importance of sound training.

Take two girls. Both determine that stenography is the opening they will seek. One takes the usual course and enters an office at the ordinary salary. She can do the average thing, and that is all.

The other girl isn't satisfied with such a future. She takes Spanish and French, and studies English, both commercial and cultivated. She studies the requirements of a big position, and works for it. She puts in an extra year of work before accepting a position and once at work she continues her studies.

She will be one of the few thoroughly equipped women for the position she has in mind. She will get that position in time. And she will be making two or three times what her friend is at the end of ten years, and have, moreover, the assurance of a permanent position and real recognition. Because the thoroughly trained person is rare, and the firm who secures her won't let her go if it can help itself.

A girl can specialize in bank work, in technical work, secretarial work or for big business. And this is only in the one line of stenography. There are hundreds of other lines, and in each the trained and ambitious worker will be at a premium. Don't be content with the average job.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BLIGHTY."

THE number of slang words and phrases which have slipped into the language by reason of the babel which resulted when men of many nations gathered in the great melting pot of the allied army is a long one, but one of the most typical is "blighty"—the English colloquial equivalent for "home."

Prior to the commencement of the recent great World war the majority of the British army was stationed in India and much of their slang consisted of words and phrases adapted from the language of the natives. "Blighty" is a common Indian name for England, and, as if to add another parcel to the ancestral tree of "blighty," the inhabitants of Hindustan speak of "home" as "bhillati." The similarity of the two expressions naturally impressed the British soldier, and it was not long before he corrupted them into "blighty"—using it as a noun when he referred to his native soil and as an adjective when he wanted to express something connected with his return. A "blighty wound," therefore, meant an injury serious enough to necessitate being sent back home to England. While the word failed to gain great popularity among the American soldiers, it appeared with considerable frequency in stories and reports from the front and will doubtless be used far more widely than before.

LIVE STOCK

NOT WISE TO OVERLOAD CARS

Death or Injury of Animals Means Heavy Loss to Shipper—Temptation to Crowd in Great.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) It makes quite a difference to the profits of the farmer stock raiser whether he obtains 85 cents per pound for his hogs as meat or from 1 1/2 to 2 cent per pound for them as dead hogs and some grease material. Which of these returns he obtains depends upon how the animals are loaded in the cars. Many shippers, either through ignorance or in an effort to save a small amount of freight, overload or improperly load their live stock when sending it to market, and thereby run great risks of sustaining serious losses through crippled or dead animals. Any specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture.

With freight rates at their present levels there is a strong temptation to economize on this item of expense by crowding a few more animals into an already well-filled car. Representatives of the department, however, who see thousands of carloads of live stock unloaded at the great central markets are of the opinion that if farmers and stockmen could see the condition in which much of the live stock reaches the stockyards they would be impressed not only with the folly of overloading, but also with the absolute necessity of taking every precaution against injury and death of the animals while in transit.

Overloading is one of the commonest and at the same time most serious mistakes made by the inexperienced or careless shipper. It seems such an easy matter to crowd just a few more animals into a car, and the fact that once in a great while an overloaded car will go through without serious mishap seems to urge the shipper on to tempt fate just once more. The wise shipper, however, will have nothing to do with this false economy. He will lay down a hard and fast rule to load only as many animals in the car as can ride comfortably and from this rule he will not deviate.

The chances of loss through overloading are greater in warm weather than in cold. Temperatures may be such at the time of loading that the animals are fairly comfortable but before they reach market the weather turns suddenly hot, with the result that anywhere from one to 12 animals suffocate. This is particularly true of hogs. The shipper should remember that stock cars frequently stand in freight yards completely hemmed in by trains of box cars. Under such circumstances, if the animals are crowded in the car and the weather is hot, overloaded and dead animals are almost certain to result.

Another mistake frequently made is to load mixed stock without proper partitions. When two or more species of live stock are shipped in the same car they should generally be kept separate by building strong partitions. This is particularly important when large animals are shipped with smaller ones.

It has been found that shipping live animals any considerable distance is an unprofitable affair, fraught with some risk. This risk however may be materially reduced in the opinion of department specialists.

The exact number of animals that should be shipped in a car, naturally, varies with the size of the car, the size and kind of animals, the length of haul, the season of the year, and weather conditions. There can be no variation, however, in the general rule that the animals should have sufficient room to be reasonably comfortable and that the car should be so partitioned that large animals cannot trample the smaller ones and that aggressive and quarrelsome animals cannot injure those with a more quiet and timid disposition.

Even at the present comparatively low price of live stock a single dead or crippled animal invariably represents a substantial loss, and in many instances wipes out the profit on the entire shipment.
